tributions to the nation's economy.

"Your hard work, innovative ideas and dedication to your community have made you a success," said Bernard M. Sweeney, district director for the Small Business Administration. "And your willingness to dedicate your professional skills to assist others in support of small business demonstrates the leadership of a champion for small business in Connecticut."

Along with directing his firm's tax operations, Mahoney is very involved in the community. He is a member of the Northern Middlesex County YMCA Board of Directors, is a member of the Middlesex County Chamber of Commerce and coaches in the Glastonbury Youth Baseball League.

"I am humbled that the Small Business Administration would select me for this prestigious award," Mahoney said. "I do my best every day to assist small businesses because they are the lifeblood of our economy."

The Small Business Administration awards presentation will be held on the morning of May 20 at the Hawthorne Inn in Berlin.
